Super: Compete With Integrity
The following story is purely fictitious

Voice-over: Gentlemen...

Voice-over: I'll get it.

Voice-over: I'll get this.

Voice-over: No, let me get this...

Voice-over: You really shouldn't be treating us again.

Voice-over: No worries. Our businesses are doing really well.
It's nothing.

Voice-over: I didn't know that operating shuttle bus services for residential estates was so lucrative.

Voice-over: We agree among ourselves to send out quotations to different residential estates respectively.
They don't really have a choice.
And we virtually monopolize the shuttle bus business.

Voice-over: We can charge whatever we like!

Voice-over: Even if his clients ask me for quotation, I am not going to reply.

Voice-over: So, how are we going to share those estates this year?

Voice-over: Same as usual, let's split the districts between us.
I'll send you the list when it's done.

Voice-over: No wonder the shuttle bus fares are getting higher and higher.
It's all because of you!

Super: Market sharing is serious anti-competitive conduct under the Competition Ordinance.
No business, big or small, should agree with their competitors to share markets. Don't cheat. Compete.
